

My black whippet Tommy had been competing in Flyball for 10 months before I met Helen. Tommy was very enthusiastic about the sport; however he had issues with concentrating on the job at hand - often running over to the dog in the opposing lane and racing back on the wrong side of the course! Several methods for preventing this had proved unsuccessful and I seriously thought his Flyball career would be short-lived.

Helen was sensitive, caring and empathetic while she assessed Tommy. She proposed a program of massage and acupressure to help with Tommy's focus. The program is simple - and very relaxing and pleasurable for both of us!

Since Helen's recent visit, Tommy has competed in two competitions and has not put a paw wrong! He is relaxed and much more focused in the ring and has just achieved his "Australian Flyball Dog Champion" title!. Thank you Helen.
